

Keynote 2

What has COVID-19 done to your control environment?

Presented by

Name: Ben Kelly

Position: Chief Internal Auditor and Chief Risk Officer

Company: Australian Taxation Office

- Being flexible with staffing
- Setting the scene with figures from August:
  - JobKeeper
  - Cashflow boost
  - Early release of super

- The ATO's experience with natural disasters
- Record payments into the Australian economy
- Managing the scale and complexity of the task

What existed already that we could rely on

- ATO Business Continuity Management Framework
- Our extensive data holdings:
  - Single Touch Payroll
  - Online Services For Agents
  - PAYG system
  - Activity Statement Financial Processing

Our Design, Risk and Audit capabilities

- ATO's design capability:
  - ❑ Focussed on implementing a user-centric and tailored approach
- The role of Corporate Risk and Internal Audit:
  - ❑ Risk's role more strongly focussed on support
  - ❑ Internal Audit providing real-time advice

What changed? And what has changed in Internal Audit?

- What types of work have slowed or stopped?
- What types of work are getting back to a new 'normal'?
- How has COVID-19 impacted our Forward Audit Work Program?

Case study discussions

- Early Release of Super fraud cases
- The JobKeeper ‘reporting error’

Discussion

- Comments
- Questions?

Australian Taxation Office commissioner Chris Jordan last month at a Senate committee hearing about the government's response to COVID-19. Picture: Sithixay Dithavong